OUR CURRENT PROJECTS INCLUDE A NEW SCIENCE PROGRAMME DUE TO LAUNCH IN SCHOOLS IN MARCH.

Blue Kazoo is a Theatre-in-Education startup based in Nottingham which has progressed to work with over a thousand children across the East Midlands and Yorkshire. We deliver character-driven workshop days based on the school curriculum to inspire a generation of active learners.

Could you be a jedi teaching children about space?
How about a WW2 nurse sharing your experiences in the trenches?
Can you devise a game to teach children about Ancient Egypt?

We are looking for three students to be trained to visit schools in 2019.

You will be expected to:
- learn facts and information about your particular topic.
- create games and workshops based on your character or subject.
- engage children in a subject by creating an interesting, relevant and believable character.
- improvise and adapt based on a child's question or answer.
- feature in promotional material and training material on Blue Kazoo's website and social media pages.

What you can expect:
- real experiences teaching in classrooms.
- a testimonial to add to future acting and/or teaching applications.
- high quality video and audio recordings of your experiences inside and outside the classroom.
- insight into one of the fastest-growing Theatre in Education companies in Nottinghamshire.
- studio space to work alongside other creative individuals.
- all the resources and costumes your character will need.
- free training in teaching and performance techniques.

Email info@bluekazoo.co.uk for more information.
No prior experience necessary.
Application deadline: 28th February
